Abstract

The vital importance of the role of grammar instruction in foreign language learning is that some teachers and readers think grammar instruction is not necessary for learning language. However, other researchers suppose its role is very significant among the majority of studies. Students would not learn speaking, reading, listening, and writing skills if they did not know anything about how structure grammar rules of word and sentences.

Key words: teaching grammar instruction by simple tasks, importance of grammar instruction in learning language, learning English as EFL.

Introduction

Grammar is very important for learning language as foreign language. It is maintain section of all languages. The majority of scientists carry lots of searching above the grammar role of teaching language. After the second world war, English language starts developing at all of countries and languages. According to the majority of scientists' opinions grammar is pole at learning language.

It is truth in commonplace, grammar is a considerable amount of studies view to the significance for facilitating the development of four macro skills of teaching language. Grammar will have been delighted to readers and students by fascinative plays and methods. For instance, basic tasks will aid to studies increasing at their grammar instruction as learning foreign language torisement. Step by step, doing simple grammar practices will deep attract learner's thinks and perspectives after tasks slowly increase at doing them as a result students or readers will go define understand primary part of foreign language. Nowadays, teachers of universities and schools consider the role of grammar instruction is very important for learning English as EFL.

There are some short claims of scientists about grammar role of teaching language and learning it. According to the Nassaji[1; 83] and Fotos' views "without grammar , language does not exist!"Then option is Cook's[2; 83] that "however the important other components of language may be themselves". These options are close to each other. They verbalised true and truth sentence about grammar. For knowing perfectly a sort of language before it should has been learn grammar units.If you do not structure words of sentences, you will do wrong something at communication with people.

Novice teachers often seemed to give prominence to enhancing the communicative abilities of learners ignoring the role of grammar and grammatical accuracy in language teaching.Eventually, scholars came to a consensus that without a good command of grammar one cannot become a proficient user of a foreign language.[3;84] In fact this idea is unfortunately truth of nowadays. Inasmuch as since demand CEFR ( Common European Framework of Reference ) , studies and teachers do not work above the grammar rules of learning language. They look at the maintain four skills( Reading, writing, listening and speaking) their whole consideration. It should be noted that no one never perfect learn these skills from do not know grammar units in sentences, this is significant for learning and teaching foreign language. Grammar instruction supplies speech be impactable and appealing. We do not communicate effectively with people without grammar instruction in sentences. Effective communication demand not only fluency, likely also precision.

Readers will learn fast grammar instruction with simple tasks. If teachers accustom grammar rules with entertaining games to students or pupils, they will study interested in it and they will memorise them forever in their mind. In addition to that every student should start grammar structure if he or she learn the language, yes they should focus on grammar. At that time, they comprehend that basic tasks also play important role at teaching students.

In the Thailand some scientists [4; 180] claimed that their opinions about importance of grammar instruction in language learning. For instance, Also reported in the Bangkok Post of March 9, 2016 is another attack on grammar instruction by a local teacher who pointed out that "English teaching in Thailand at present only focuses on teaching grammar and vocabulary which students have to use in exams, so pupils care only about grades and cannot use English in real-life situations". Based on the foregoing, English language instruction in the EFL context necessitates the rethinking of grammar instruction. While certain academicians believe that grammar should be emphasized because, without it, EFL learners will end up with fluent but not accurate English. [ 5; 180]

Learning English as EFL is the vital among students for they achieve qualification, they will only work with it in many sides such as university, college, school and other places. Work place of course demand certificate from their workers. Hence, tutor who teaches pupils, should be experienced. Knowing foreign language help us how communicate with travellers and visitors in our country. Moreover, if you trip to different countries for relaxing, holiday or surface from work, of course you should know at least one language. For instance, English language is used commonly among foreign individuals. Furthermore, in lots of countries suppose the English language is formal language. Present period requirement is young people have to be a goal at learn something. Frankly speaking, humans should develop their skills about learning language. Elder people who know grammar units of foreign language perfectly they should aid to young at studying English as EFL. The majority of wise scientists' perspective seems to that if students or pupils study something language, they should look at grammar instruction all of their conservation. Nevertheless, readers will not speak effectively with others if they have not grammar experience.

Conclusion

This study shows that examining the role of grammar instruction in language learning is very important in our modern life. Moment demand is learning language as foreign language, travelling abroad according to increase knowledge skills or business work and deal. At universities and schools it should be focused on grammar rules how to do them by tasks or activities of students or pupils at lessons and teachers should help instruction to be understandable for them. Mistakes in grammar units before speaking foreign language perfectly should be checked.
